Lesson 6

Essential Question: How did we end up with so many branches of Christianity?

Map the Reformation by following the directions below exactly

Step 1: The first split in Christianity occurred before the Protestant Reformation when the Christians of the Byzantine Empire broke from the Catholic Church and formed the Orthodox Church because the leader of the Orthodox Church refused to recognize the authority of the Pope. Orthodox Christianity dominated in the Balkan Peninsula (the northwest half of the Ottoman Empire) Wallachia, and Russia; color these areas yellow.

Step 2: As people became angry with the Catholic Church, they started to seek religious knowledge on their own, without the help of Catholic priests, to do this they needed a Bible that they could read; all Catholic Bibles were written in Latin. Early in the Reformation Bibles were translated into English, Czech, & German. Draw a small black T in England, the center of the Holy Roman Empire, and the Southeast corner of the Holy Roman Empire.

Step 3: Groups of people in England, The Holy Roman Empire, Switzerland, and Scotland began to argue that it was not necessary to follow the teaching of the Catholic Church in order to get to heaven. This annoyed the leaders of the Catholic Church who saw this as a threat to their power. Draw a small red ○ in these countries.

Step 4: The first area to officially break from the Catholic Church and form a new Christian Church was the northern half of the Holy Roman Empire. They were led by a former Catholic monk named Martin Luther who argued that all a person needed to get to heaven was faith in God and the Bible. This new Christian Church became known as the Lutheran Church. Color the northern half of the Holy Roman Empire light green NOTE leave a small area in the northwest corner of the country white.

Step 5: Martin Luther felt strongly that the Catholic Church had become corrupt. To show his frustration with the Catholics he made a list of 95 things that made him angry about the Catholic Church. Known as the 95 Thesis, Luther posted this list on the door of the Catholic Church in the city of Wittenberg in the Holy Roman Empire. Directly above the “H” in Holy (the location of Wittenberg) write 95 and circle it.

Step 6: Luther’s message spread quickly because of a new technology introduced to Europe from China, the printing press, this allowed people to make 1,000s of copies of Martin Luther’s 95 Thesis and distribute them quickly and cheaply all over Europe. Before the Printing press, people had to write everything by hand. Draw a ☐ next to the 95 to show that many copies were made.

Step 7: Luther’s message spread fast, soon Lutheranism spread to Denmark, Norway, and Sweden, color these countries light green as well.

Step 8: The next area to break away from the Catholic Church was Switzerland. This area was led by John Calvin who wanted to create a utopia free of all sin called “God’s City.” This new Christian Church was known as Calvinism; color this area orange.

Step 9: Calvinism spread to Scotland and the Netherlands (in the northwest corner of the Holy Roman Empire) color these areas orange as well.

Step 10: Another Christian Church was formed in the town of Munster in the central part of the Holy Roman Empire. This group, the Anabaptists, believed that only adults should be baptized because only mature adults could choose to become Christians. The Anabaptist were persecuted by both the Lutherans and the Catholics, as a result they moved to America were they eventually became known as the Baptist, Amish, and Mennonites. Muster is located just to the west of the label of the Holy Roman Empire, draw a black ● and label it Anabaptist.

Step 11: One of the more famous Protestant reformers was Henry VIII of England, he broke with the Catholic Church because he wanted a divorce which the Pope refused to grant. Henry VIII formed a new Church called the Church of England or the Episcopal. Color England Purple.

Step 12: As large numbers of people began to leave the Catholic Church, Church leaders began to fight back trying to keep people in the Catholic Church. This was called the Counter-Reformation. Violence broke out between Protestants (a Protestant is a Christian who is NOT Catholic) and Catholics all over Europe. The worst fighting was in the Holy Roman Empire were for thirty years protestants and Catholics fought a bloody war. Draw a ◊ in the Eastern part of the Holy Roman Empire.

Step 13: There was also fighting between Catholics and Protestants in England after Henry VIII died and his Catholic daughter Mary took over, draw ◊ in Northern England.

Step 14: The Papal States, Naples, Sicily, Ireland, Spain, France, Hungary, The Teutonic Knights, the Southern Half of the Holy Roman Empire, Sicily, Poland, and Portugal remained Catholic, color these countries red.

Step 15: For years, the Catholic Church had operated the Inquisition, a Church police and court system whose job it was to arrest and punish Catholics who did not obey Catholic teachings. With the Counter-Reformation the Inquisition started to arrest suspected Protestants living in Catholic Countries and punish them with torture or death by burning at the stake. Draw a ◊ in Spain because this is were the Inquisition was most deadly.

Step 16: While Christianity underwent major change during the Reformation, Islam became firmly established in Asia Minor (the southeast half of the Ottoman Empire) and the North African states of Fez & Tunis, color this area brown.

Step 17: Complete the key for the map.

Questions
1. What did the intellectuals of the European Renaissance value?

Historical Background: The Renaissance was a cultural movement that spanned the period roughly from the 14th to the 17th century, beginning in Italy in the Late Middle Ages and later spreading to the rest of Europe. As a cultural movement, it encompassed innovative flowering of Latin and vernacular literatures, beginning with the 14th-century resurgence of learning based on classical sources (Greek and Roman), the development of linear perspective and other techniques of rendering a more natural reality in painting, and gradual but widespread educational reform. In politics the Renaissance contributed the development of the conventions of diplomacy, and in science an increased reliance on observation. Historians often argue this intellectual transformation was a bridge between the Middle Ages and the Modern era. Although the Renaissance saw revolutions in many intellectual pursuits, as well as social and political upheaval, it is perhaps best known for its artistic developments and the contributions of such polymaths as Leonardo da Vinci and Michelangelo, who inspired the term "Renaissance man".

DOCUMENT 1
Here the question arises: whether it is better to be loved than feared or feared than loved. The answer is that it would be desirable to be both but, since that is difficult, it is much safer to be feared than to be loved, if one must choose. For on men in general this observation may be made: they are ungrateful, fickle, and deceitful, eager to avoid dangers and avid for gain and while you are useful to them they are all with you, offering you their blood, their property, their lives, and their sons so long as danger is remote, as we noted above, but when it approaches they turn on you. Any prince, trusting only in their words and having no other preparations made, will fall to his ruin.

Machiavelli, The Prince 1513 (an Italian historian, diplomat, philosopher, humanist and writer based in Florence during the Renaissance.)

Just as it is disgraceful and sinful to be unmindful of God so it is reprehensible and dishonorable for any man of discerning judgement not to honour you as a brilliant and venerable artist whom the very stars use as a target at which to shoot the rival arrows of their favour. You are so accomplished, therefore, that hidden in your hands lives the idea of a new king of creation, whereby the most challenging and subtle problem of all in the art of painting, namely that of outlines, has been mastered by you that in the contours of the human body you express and contain the purpose of art...And it is surely my duty to honour you with this salutation since the world has many kings but only one Michelangelo.

Pietro Aetino. "Letter to Michelangelo" 1537

I have always possessed extreme contempt for wealth...I have on the contrary led a happier existence with plain living and ordinary fare...the pleasure of dining with one's friends is so great that nothing has ever given me more delight than their unexpected arrival.

I possess a well-balanced rather than a keen intellect--one prone to all kinds of good and wholesome study, but especially to moral philosophy and the art of poetry. The later I neglected as time went on, and took delight in sacred literature...Among the many subjects that interested me, I dwell especially on antiquity, for our own age always repelled me, so that, had it not been for the love of those dear to me, I should have preferred to have been born in any other period than our own. In order to forget my own time, I have constantly striven to place myself in spirit in other ages, and consequently I delighted in history...

Francesco Petrarch. "Letter to Posterity" 1372 (an Italian scholar and poet, and one of the earliest humanists. Petrarch is often called the "Father of Humanism")
Document 4

So, man cannot know where his cognizance of primal concepts comes from—or his bent for those primary objects of desire; these are a part of you, just like the zeal of bees for making honey; the primal will is neither laudable nor blamable. That other wills conform to this first one, you have the innate faculty of reason, which should defend the threshold of consent. This is the principle on which is based the judgment of your merit—according as it winnows out the good love from the bad. Those men who with their reason probed the depths, perceived this liberty innate in man, thereby bequeathing ethics to the world.

Dante Alighieri. The Divine Comedy 1321 (a major Italian poet)

Document 5

The world is waking out of a long deep sleep. The old ignorance is still defended. Time was when learning was only found in the religious orders. The religious orders nowadays care only for money and sensuality [indulgence of the appetites], while learning has passed to secular princes and peers and courtiers. Where in school or monastery will you find so many distinguished and accomplished men as form your English Court? Shame on us all! The tables of priests and divines run with wine and echo with drunken noise and scurrilous jest, while in princes' halls is heard only grave and modest conversation on points of morals or knowledge....That king of yours [Henry VIII of England] may bring back the golden age, though I shall not live to enjoy it, as my tale draws to an end.

Erasmus. Life and Letters c. 1300 (a Dutch Renaissance humanist, Catholic priest, social critic, teacher, and theologian.)
